

During this current time of crisis, Aidex is committed to our educational partners and is continuing to provide the best educational technology resources for students to build skills and knowledge to ultimately become productive citizens in our communities.

We continue to be fully staffed and are tracking existing orders as well as working with schools to plan and develop programs for the 2020-2021 school year. As you know, our customers are 99% educational institutions--most of which are on a work from home order from our government. We also know that the plans and budgets you are working from still have deadlines to meet, and we are here to help you.

In order to help, we are equipped with a team of experts and a variety of technologies to assist you:

- Conference calls with our experts to answers questions, provide specifications, and give advice
- Webinars with the ability to share video, documents, and screens collectively with your remote teams
- eLearning demo access to preview learning content and plan for your curriculum, now and going forward
- Demo equipment that can be shown via online meetings by our team of experts
- References and connections to teachers currently using the above resources, so you can hear from current users of our solutions
- Proposals and quotes that can be submitted quickly once school is back in session and can be ready for implementation to meet your deadlines

Our website continues to be a resource and includes links to the 40+ companies we represent. From the Aidex website, you can find product videos, customer spotlights and case studies, and a quick and easy way to reach out to our team of experts.
